DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure

1. The information disclosure statement submitted on June 30, 2004 and April 27, 2005 was received . The submission is in compliance with the provisions of 37 CFR 1.97 . Accordingly the examiner is considering the information disclosure statement .

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claim(s) 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Koch (US 2004/0111269 A1).

Regarding claim(s) 1 and 15, Koch discloses a method for executing an advanced intelligent network service provided in a public switched telephone network (FIG. 1 and paragraph 1), the method comprising:

forwarding a message from a service control point (SCP 310 on FIG. 3) to a voice extensible markup language platform (VXML gateway 312 on FIG. 3), the message comprising an announcement identification (FIG. 3 and paragraphs 0042 and 0043) [The SCP 310 determines if the user is a subscriber with the directory number and access an application server 314 and a customer profile database 16 for a prerecorded announcement for that particular directory number, instructions are sent back to the SCP 310 to route the call to the VXML gateway 312];

analyzing the announcement identification, at the VXML platform, to determine a remote location where an announcement corresponding to the announcement identification is stored (FIG. 3 and paragraphs 0042 and 0043); and playing the announcement, wherein the announcement stored at the remote location can be created or changed by a subscriber without affecting the announcement identification (FIG. 3 and paragraphs 0043 and 0048).

Regarding claim(s) 2, 9 and 16, Koch discloses a method, in which the VXML platform comprises an intelligent peripheral component and a VIMS component (FIG. 1 and paragraph 0036).

Regarding claim(s) 3, 10 and 17, Koch discloses a method, further comprising receiving the announcement identification at the IP component (FIG. 1 and paragraph 0035);

encoding the announcement identification so that the IP component recognizes that the VIMS component will process the announcement identification (FIG. 1 and paragraph 0035); and forwarding the announcement identification to the VIMS component (FIG. 1 and paragraph 0035).

Regarding claim(s) 4 and 11, Koch discloses a method, further comprising, at the VIMS component, correlating the announcement identification to the announcement location (FIG. 1 and paragraph 0035).

Regarding claim(s) 5, 12 and 18, Koch discloses a method, in which the correlating is based upon a server location identification provided in a subscriber profile (FIG. 1 and paragraph 0042).

Regarding claim(s) 6 and 13, Koch discloses a method, in which the remote location comprises a web server (FIG. 1 and paragraph 0040).

Regarding claim(s) 7 and 14, Koch discloses a method in which the web server is identified by a uniform resources locator (FIG. 1 and paragraph 0038).

Regarding claim(s) 8, Koch discloses all the limitations of claim(s) 8 as stated in claim(s) 1's rejection and furthermore Koch discloses a service control point (310 on FIG. 3) and a voice extensible markup language (312 on FIG. 3).

Regarding claim(s) 19, Koch discloses a voice extensible markup language platform, in which the VXML platform communicates with the service control point using intelligent network application part signaling (FIG. 1 and paragraph 0035).
